

Abstract

A container for use with a pressure washer spray lance includes a hollow member having an opening for housing a chemical and a cap assembly. The cap assembly for the container includes an inner member and an outer member and is configured to allow the use 5 of the container in an inverted or upright position.